An Introduction to Cultural Association of Children and Young Adults' Book Publishers

The Cultural Association of Children and Young Adults Book Publishers is the only non-profit and non-governmental cultural organization in the field of children and young adult book publishing which started to work actively and in a broad and integrated level after the Islamic Revolution in Iran.

In a about twenty-eight years, with empathy and sympathy of the members and with internal cohesion, the association was the founder of various cultural activities at the national level and in this way it has benefited from the participation of other public and private institutions.

The Cultural Association of Children and Young Adult book Publishers began to work in 1990 with thirteen members but today with eighty-six members they have released more than 25000 books and other cultural products such as teaching aid products, brain teasers, CD-ROMs and etc. Considerable numbers of the members' products have awarded in different literary and illustration festivals.

Some of the members have been selected repeatedly as the top publishers of the year from the cultural institutions.

One of the most important activities of the association during the years was entering the non-traditional distribution of books and cultural products with various initiatives having been implemented in this field and still lots of other activities and programs are being planned for the future.

The association has implemented dozens of independent exhibitions and has participated in organization of book exhibitions in association with other institutions. We have also done special activities in this area; some were so unique which lead to some expanded activities. A list of them is as follows:

1. Holding the “First Children and Young Adult Book Fair” in six areas of Tehran in 1990.
2. Setting up 10 mobile bookstore units in Tehran for the first time in Iran in 1993.
3. Holding 1000 book exhibitions in 1000 schools on the occasion of the “Book Week” in 1993; this activity lead to launch of the first “Book Week” in the same year and the 26th program is scheduled to be held this year.
4. Participation in planning and establishment of “Book City” which is now the biggest book chain store in Iran and holding three “Specialized Exhibition of Children’s book” in 1995, 2009 and 2010.
- 6 5. Holding 27 exhibitions in 27 provinces on the occasion of “Book Week” in 1997; the first national exhibition of the private sector.
6. Holding 100 exhibitions in 100 cities of Iran on the occasion of “Book Week” in 1998. The second year of this national program was expanded compared to the previous year.
7. Holding the First student specialized exhibition in 1999.
8. Holding responsibility for the children and young adults halls of the Tehran International Book Fair 2000.
9. Holding 10 years of “Book, Children, Industry and Agriculture Book Festival” from 2004 to 2013 In cooperation with the Ministry of Culture and Islamic Guidance, the Ministry of Labor, Ministry of Industry and agriculture of Iran, with the aim of taking children’s book to the workers and farmers’ houses, holding hundreds of exhibitions and stores in the factories across the country and introducing the best industrial and agricultural units in this program.

10. Holding the “Top Book of the Year Festival” from 2006 to the present; in 2010 more than 3000 titles participated in the festival reaching the highest record among the similar festivals in Iran.
11. Participation in planning and setting up the children and young adult book section in “Book Garden” which is the biggest book store in Iran.
12. Planning the program of “Children and Young Adult Book Publishers Training”.
13. Donating more than 436200 volumes of books to the rural libraries in four years and we aim to continue this process.
14. Participating in Frankfurt and Bologna Book Fairs since 2005.

The products produced by the members of the Cultural Association of Children and Young Adults’ Book Publishers are in different subjects and for different age groups.

 Pages: 40
 Book Size: 22 cm × 22
 Print: 2018
 Publisher: Qou
 ISBN: 9789649065991

This book is about the friendship between a young girl and a pure man. The man works hard every day, and each drop of his sweat that falls on the ground becomes a red rose bush. The girl has noticed this secret. The girl's father does not like this friendship and thinks the pure man has put a spell on his daughter; so the father asks a druid to make his daughter free. But there's nothing that the druid can do. The pure man is so gentle and kind; he worships the one true God and does not care about the man-made gods. So, the people get angry at him and try to kill him...

Although its heroes are all inhabitants of a forest, love of the jungle is the story of our world. Living in the jungle has its own rule which is subordinated to the law of jungle. They are the strongest who set and monitor the law of the jungle. Do not use your intelligence and knowledge there and you will not get the slightest chance. The collection features satirical stories which are sometimes bitter and sometimes sweet. In the stories of jungle, it is not enough to uproot a tree or through away a large rock to be strong, but you must use your mind and knowledge as well to save the day without spoiling yourself and the others.

The story is narrated by a piece of ground in Medina which belongs to two orphans. Plagued by harassments from the enemies of Islam, the Prophet has come from Mecca to Medina to continue his invitation. Many people from Medina like him to stay at their homes, but the Prophet asks them let his camel choose where he stays. The two orphans, like the others, are staring at the camel for they expect the camel chooses their piece of ground. Hearing the voice of their ground, the camel does choose it. The orphans wish to present it as a gift but the Prophet refuses and pays the price of that ground to build his house and the first mosque in the history of Islam.

This quintuplet series represents the world the way it is described in Avesta (religious texts of Zoroastrianism). Arman Arian is an adept writer who gathered all the major and minor characters of Avesta in one coherent and appealing story. Padishkhwargar is a land in the north of Iran, which is called Savadkouh nowadays. In the story, demons have assaulted the earth and darkness has prevailed the light. Therefore, a group of people get ready to find the legendary "Padishkhwargar" (who is named after his land). He is the warrior who can bring peace and light back to the world. This story has many characters and recounts a great battle between the good and the evil. Up to this date, three volumes of this series have been published and are available.

Pages: 440
Book Size: 14 cm × 18.5 cm / Print: 2016
Publisher: Ofoq
ISBN: 9786003531895

This quintuplet series represents the world the way it is described in Avesta (religious texts of Zoroastrianism). Arman Arian is an adept writer who gathered all the major and minor characters of Avesta in one coherent and appealing story. Padishkhwargar is a land in the north of Iran, which is called Savadkouh nowadays. In the story, demons have assaulted the earth and darkness has prevailed the light. Therefore, a group of people get ready to find the legendary "Padishkhwargar" (who is named after his land). He is the warrior who can bring peace and light back to the world. This story has many characters and recounts a great battle between the good and the evil. Up to this date, three volumes of this series have been published and are available.

He has won a number of literary prizes so far, such as: Yalda Literary Prize, Isfahan Literary Prize and winner of Best Book for Children and Young Adults. The Ogre Conserve has a twist in it: a good boy who wants to be bad. Tooka is a clever boy, with whole lot of problems at home and at school. His father passed away and his mother is so depressed she does not care about Tooka. In School, there are always some bully boys who want to hurt him. Hi is alone, has no friends, and gets bitten all the time. Someday, he buys a book from an old lady: the biography of a criminal. Some parts of this memoir is dexterously woven into the context of the book. Tooka decides to be a criminal because his current life is very disappointing to him. The old lady sold an Ogre Conserve to Tooka as well. The Ogre is big, bitter, speaks nonsense, like the colour yellow and doesn't obey Tooka.

If I had not climbed up the ladder; perhaps if the ladder was not loose, if my sister, Sho'eleh had cleaned the chandelier in my stead, if my mother was more concerned for her one and only son, if that was not the eve of new Iranian year, I would not have to suffer that much, submit to hardship and struggle over not marrying Queen Sansana. Siavash is electrocuted and his spirit travels to the land of electricity. Whoever enters that land must serve the queen forever, but Siavash is still so young and wants to live with his parents and his sister Sho'eleh, even though he is not in friendly terms with the latter. However, return to the world and ordinary life requires him to pass tricky stages which at times seem to be almost impossible to pass...

 ISBN: 9789644763571

The book recounts the life of Ali (PBUH) thirty years before his birth, when the Prophet was born. There is a connection between the two births; a connection formed in heavens. One comes after another. One is the Sun while the other is the Moon. The narrator of this story is Ali's mother. Thirty years before the birth of his son, she has loved him. She speaks of her waiting; of the passion she has for his own son on one hand and for son of Aminah bint Wahb on the other hand. She seems to be the mother of the Sun and Moon.
