About the Cultural Association of Children and young adults' book Publishers

The Cultural Association of Children and Young Adults' Book Publishers is the only non-governmental cultural organization in the field of children and young adults' book publishing in Iran. In 1990, the association started to work with empathy, sympathy and internal cohesion of its members all over the country.

This association has 92 members; they have released more than 25,000 books and other cultural products such as teaching aid products, brain teasers, CD-ROMs, etc. A considerable number of the products from members of this association have been awarded in different literary and illustration festivals. Moreover, some of its members have been selected repeatedly as top publishers of the year by cultural institutions.

One of the most important activities of the association during the years was to enter the non-traditional distribution of books and cultural products with various initiatives having been implemented in this field and still lots of other activities and programs are being planned for the future.

Some of the activities of the association are as follows:

1. Holding the "First Children and Young Adults' Book Fair" in six areas of the City of Tehran in 1990.
2. Setting up ten mobile bookstore units in the City of Tehran in 1993.

3. Holding 1000 book exhibitions in 1000 schools in 1993; this activity was part of the first "Book Week" in the Islamic Republic of Iran which has continued up until now.
4. Participation in planning and establishment of "Book City" in the City of Tehran, which is now the largest book chain store in Iran and holding three "Specialized Exhibition of Children's book" in 1995, 2009 and 2010.
5. Holding 27 exhibitions in 27 provinces of the country in 1997.
6. Holding 100 exhibitions in 100 cities in 1998.
7. Holding the First Student Specialized Exhibition in 1999.
8. Taking the responsibility for the children and young adults halls of the Tehran International Book Fair from 2000 onwards.
9. Holding 10 years of "Book, Children, Industry and Agriculture Book Festival and Exhibition" from 2004 to 2013 with the aim of presenting children's book to the families of workers and farmers.
10. Holding nine editions of the "Top Book of the Year Festival" from 2006 to the present with the aim of promoting the level of children's book production management.
11. Participation in planning and foundation of the children and young adults book section in "Book Garden" as the largest Iranian book store in 2018.
12. Planning and implementing specialized and general training courses for the publishers of children and young adults' books.
13. Donating more than 436000 volumes of books to the rural libraries within four years.

14. Participating in Frankfurt and Bologna Book Fairs since 2005 for several times.

15. Collaboration and interaction with other association influencing the field of children and young adults' books with the aim of promoting the level of children's book production.

 ISBN: 9786000811396

One of the most important trainings that parents should consider for their children is to teach them protect themselves from physical and sexual dangers. It is a very important and destructive danger that today, due to the prevalence of child sexual abuse in society, should not be easily overlooked and should be taught to children from the very beginning of their childhood. Many parents do not know how to raise their children to protect them against such abuse. They do not know how to teach them to be able to take care of themselves against physical and sexual harassment! It is difficult to talk about this harassment. This series tries to explain the concept of self-care and protection of children against physical, psychological and sexual abuse to children by using simple and narrative poems.

This doctor is different from all other doctors. She does not give injections or pills. Yet, when I said I had a giant, she neither mocked me nor frowned. She got up, came to me and hugged me. Then, she suddenly asked, "Really? Is your giant here now?" The giant took his head out, looked at me and said, "No... No... Don't say anything!" The psychological theme of this story is imagination in children, responsibility, nursing a sick mother, and sibling relationships.

This book revolves around the patience concept and represents the fact that haste will waste everything. In other words, if you rush, you lose your desires. In this book, children plant wheat and wait for its growth. Then, they can not wait so long to see the result and try to get help from anything such as sunlight and rain, etc. However, the seeds teach them to be patient.

Adopting a narrative approach, the author tries to attract the adolescent audience and focus on subjects such as the ability to notice and enjoy their spiritual and physical possessions to enhance their achievements in life so that they are enabled to learn social activity skills. In spite of having a lot of facilities, the teenagers in this story can not be happy! In other words, although they have many things to enjoy their time, they are not capable of using them beneficially. Shortage of facilities is not their problem, but it is their viewpoint, which is the main reason for their inability to enjoy their lives. This story guides teenagers to use their thinking and speech abilities to communicate and live a happy productive life.

Darya asked her mother, "Do wishes live in people's minds or in their hearts?" The mother replied, "Wishes are born in our minds, but if they want to reach from the imaginary to the real world, they must travel from our minds to the bottom of our hearts. Not all wishes can complete this journey. Some of them go back in the middle of the road and some do not want to travel at all. They are wishes that we will soon forget. But we love those wishes that reach the bottom of our hearts and we will never forget them. My father always said, 'Here is where we were born, here is our land. We are rooted in this land. If we leave, we will not be able to take our home, life, friends and family with us.' People, like trees, have to live where their roots are."

Have you ever wondered why the Iranian people cared so much about the sky? Did you know that most of the mysterious myths of the Iranians in ancient times were about the sky, the planets and the stars? Of course, many events have taken place since then, and astronomy in Iran, along with other parts of the world, has taken the path of progress and science. The evolution of this science in Iran and its mysteries and wonders, the introduction of prominent Iranian astronomers and their impact on the progress of this science from the beginning to today, is the subject of this book. All events are listed with solar, lunar and Gregorian dates to make it easy to follow them. Read astronomy in Iran in 124 pages, in full color and illustrated, and enjoy the magic of combining color, image, science and history.

Iranian Environment: Zagros Forests

Author: Ardavan Zaranian
photographer: Hassan Moghimi
Pages: 88
Book Size 23.5 cm × 30.5 cm
Publisher: Nardeban Books (ITP Co.)
Print: 2021
ISBN: 9786004774598

The unique ecosystem of Zagros and its flora and fauna as well as their impacts of people on them is the topic of this book. The book starts with the definition of a forest, mountain range, and an introduction to the climate of Zagros. Animals in different groups, i.e. birds, mammals, reptiles, amphibians, and fish are studied. A part of the book is dedicated to the mutual impacts of Zagros and the region's inhabitants. In this part, "regulating services of nature" is explained and it is argued that the ecosystem regulates the conditions of the region and makes human living better. In the other parts of the book, important areas of the Zagros, including national parks, protected areas, nature reserves, wildlife refuges, and Zagros as a National Natural Landmark are discussed. The purpose of Iran's environment series is to make children and young adults informed about the animals and ecosystems of Iran so that they are encouraged to save this natural legacy.

Dorsa's younger brother has won a painting competition and is going to Japan with Mom and Dad. They want to leave Dorsa to Granny, but Granny says Dorsa is as vicious as a dragon. Dorsa goes to the warehouse in a sulk, where she sees a picture of Aunt Ghoulab. Dorsa shows the photo to Mom and Dad and says she will stay with Aunt Ghoulab. Dad gives her the key to the safe and tells her hug the blue teapot gently so that Aunt Ghoulab can appear to her, but Dorsa picks up the teapot with a grunt, and for this reason, an annoyed Ghoulab shows up. In response to everything, like Dorsa, Aunt Ghoulab tells it is none of her business, and behaves grumpily. Using a humorous language and bringing Aunt Ghoulab character, the author shows Dorsa's wrong behaviors to her and to the audience.

The hero of Legorisceh Island

Omid lives with his Pa and Ma. He has made an island called Legorisceh under his bed and daydreams with his robots and toys. When Ma has a guest, he brings all the toys to the living room and plays with them in addition to the water jug and other utensils and this makes Ma angry. Or he is hung from the refrigerator with ropes and other equipment as if he is climbing the top of an ice mountain. In one of his games, Ma and Pa disappear, and after a while, when he wakes up, he sees them again and is happy. In this fiction, the author shows that children, no matter how much they do not like their parents' hardships, ultimately want to be with them. In this story, the author tries to depict the imaginary world of children, and in the meantime, speaks in a humorous tone and style about their wishes and mental inclinations.

The novel is about life skills. The story is about a ten-year-old boy called Javid whose parents are getting divorced and Javid is trying to save their marriage. Javid's father works on a wharf in the south and comes to Tehran every two weeks. His mother is a nurse so Javid is alone most of the time. The narrator is an orange in the fruit basket, which is sometimes in the fridge and sometimes goes to school as Javid's snack and gets back untouched. Javid sees the court summons and tries to hide it but his father sees that and tries to find a solution. Mother is taking care of the Javid's sick grandmother while he and his father try to bring her back home for dinner or lunch. The orange has made a cooking page on Instagram and every day shares a new recipe and Javid and his father use these recipes. Javid tries different ways to fix his parents' relationship and does not get disappointed and tries new ways.

A lion cub lives with his mom and dad and two sisters in a cage in a zoo. One day a group of kids is visiting the zoo and a baby's pacifier falls into the cage. The lion cub takes the pacifier, puts it in his mouth and enjoys it, but his parents are mad at him. The days after that, people take photos of him and his pacifier and the man who cleans their cage brings some other toys for him to entertain people. His parents are mad at him, and tell him not to do that because he is a real lion, not a circus lion. The cub loves his parents but does not listen to them. Eventually one day he gets close to the hyena's cage and his father saves him but he gets injured. A few days later, a hyena takes a child but the cub courageously saves the kid. His parents see his bravery and are proud of him and the cub quit the pacifier and lives as a real, brave lion.

Enigmas have always been part of the educational resources for the past generations. By enigmas that also had story elements in them, kids became acquainted with methods of problem solving. This kind of intellectual exercise was used to solve the complicated puzzles of life. The author, a retired teacher who has been working in the field of children literature for many years, has collected some of these enigmas in this book. These enigmas have special complexity and cannot be solved without finding the logic behind them. Therefore, the descriptive answers to the enigmas have been collected in a separate volume.

A new caretaker has been hired for the school. The previous caretaker claimed that some funny business was going on in the lab. But the schoolmaster thought it as an excuse for weaseling out of work. In the morning of the second day, the new caretaker is reproached for not doing one of his tasks, which is filling the alcohol lamp every day after the school is finished. But he is sure that it was full the previous afternoon.

I am Nami and I hate books. The teachers in the school were always talking about the famous Iranian figures of the past, constantly blaming us by reminding their names. Eventually, I got frustrated, rolled up my sleeves, and went to check out those boring people all by myself. Heaven forbid! I read many books and took notes. The result was that Al-Razi was one of us play-hooky kids. He had fun until he was thirty, and when he did it as much as he could, he studied and became a scientist overnight; and that was with the help of a cool potion that he discovered...

You used three things, namely your thoughts, senses and feelings. Through your thoughts you realized that you have to look for the sunset. Through another sense, vision, you found the sunset, and by another senses, touching, you discovered the location of the sun's second ray. And then through your feelings, in other words your tendency for victory and your sadness for failure, you seized the third ray of the sun.
